WALKOUT SPREADING

Switchmen Join Firemen
and Engineers in a United Protest.

(By the Associated Press)
CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—Nation wide paralysis of the railroad transportation threatened today as "big four" brotherhood men in various parts of the country called meetings to consider joining the trainmen's walkout which started when a crew tied up trans-continental Santa Fe trains in California and Arizona deserts and freight transportation on the Elgin, Joliet and Eastern, Otter Belt Line for the Chicago steel and shipping district.

The walkout of trainmen spread to other sections during the last 24 hours, switchmen joining the firemen, engineers, conductors and brakemen in protest against working where troops, deputy United States marshals and guards were on strike duty at former trouble centers. Clerks on the Santa Fe coast line were authorized to walk out if they considered conditions unsatisfactory.

Passengers Tied Up

Southern Pacific firemen joined the walkout, tying up important passenger trains at Ogden, Utah.

Although several Santa Fe passengers were held up by the strike of trainmen, some were backed into Los Angeles, other trans-continental trains were stranded in the desert. Passengers marooned at Seligman, Ariz., appealed to Santa Fe officials to release them from their plight, declaring that women and children were suffering. The plea was passed on to the brotherhood officials at Needles, Cal. They were urged by the company to consider the situation from a "humanitarian" standpoint.

FIREFLESS COOKERS ROAST PASSENGERS

(By the Associated Press)

NEEDLES, CAL., Aug. 12.—"Fireless cookers" was the phrase applied last night to the day coaches by passengers stranded here, because of the controversy between the Santa Fe railroad and members of the big four brotherhoods.

"We are as contented as anyone could be, hundreds of miles from home, in a desert with the temperature standing at 113 degrees at seven o'clock at night," said one of them.

He and the other 300 or more deserted the train which, from standing in the sun all day, was hotter than the atmosphere, and took up a temporary home in the little park surrounding the railroad station.

A newspaper was all that was needed for a bed and the sky for a cover.

Passengers are being fed free by the railroad company until it shall be able to remove them to their destination.

WEST BOUND MAIL IS TIED UP IN ARIZONA

(By the Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 12.—Seven car loads of west bound mail were reported tied up at Ashfork, Ariz., on the Santa Fe line. Mail from the east has been routed for a few days via El Paso but the spread of the strike has cut off this channel.

Government Ready to Use Machinery to Distribute Coal

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—While high hopes for early settlement of the coal strike are entertained by the administration, averting any necessity of restoring to the "drastic action" by the government frequently hinted at, results of the prolonged strike in the production of coal are expected to keep the government's coal distribution machinery functioning for a long period.

It was the opinion of administration officials yesterday that the anthracite coal strike would reach its climax within a week.

Muskogee Asks Governor About Report That Wounded Whites May Lose Building

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 12.—Governor J. B. A. Robertson was notified today of a rumor that the federal veterans bureau proposes to make the state soldier memorial hospital at Muskogee a hospital for negro ex-soldier mental cases, in a telegram message from the secretary of the Muskogee chamber of commerce.

The Governor replied to the secretary's request that he investigate the rumor and act to prevent such a course by saying that he could do nothing whatever in the matter.

Murray Gibbons, former soldier and a member of the state legislature from McClain county expressed indignation when informed of the report. He was chairman of the house representative committee on the soldier relief during the last extra session of the legislature when the hospital bill was passed.

"If there is any possibility that the government may take the hospital over to be used for negroes," he said, "the bill is so framed I believe, that the offer of the institution to the government can be withdrawn by the state. I am sure that the next congress would withdraw the offer, or amend the bill to make that possible if it is not now provided for."

"The ex-soldiers of the state would use all their power to prevent the use of the memorial hospital for negroes, and I think I can speak for the American Legion in saying that organization would strongly oppose such a proposal."

TO TAKE BOTH RACES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Probability of arrangements being made for taking care of both white and negro former service men at the Oklahoma Memorial hospital at Muskogee was indicated today at the veterans bureau. The hospital has not yet been leased by the government but if plans for acquiring the institution materialize it will be conducted as any other government hospital and probably negro patients will be received as well as white former service men, veteran bureau officials said.

State Will Demand Death Decree for Black Boy Who Slew Woman.

(By the Associated Press)

PRYOR, OKLA., Aug. 12.—Between now and August 21, Elias Ridge, negro boy, who confessed to the murder of Mrs. George Adair, white, wife of a Pensacola farmer exactly $155.20.

Allison entered pleas of guilty to four charges, one of being drunk in a public place and three of assault and battery upon Rev. R. E. Brothers of Ada, Rev. J. A. Williams of Steedman, and Royal Isaac, Steedman.

Upon default of payment of the fines, Allison was placed in the county jail. He was alleged to have made an attack on a revival meeting at Steedman on the night of July 21. Rev. Brothers was conducting the meeting.

Despite the negro's youth, Attorney Hill said today he would insist upon the death penalty. Ridge will be 15 years old next Christmas.

BIBLE THOUGHT OF TODAY

BETTER THAN RUBIES:—Search the Scriptures; for in them ye think ye have eternal life; and they are they which testify of me.—John 5:39.

The fight on Dr. DeBarr, vice-president of the university of Oklahoma, again brings up the question of how much liberty a school man should have in expressing his views on political question of the day. We do not know the details of the case against Dr. DeBarr, but we are unable to see why a teacher should be muzzled any more than a man in any other business. Of course we would not tolerate the teaching of anarchy, bolshevism or any other doctrine designed to destroy American institutions and ideals, but the country is nearing the danger point when to be a teacher a man must wear a muzzle and not be allowed the same freedom that other men are granted. A teacher is as much interested in public affairs as any other citizen and why should some one seek to drive him from his position because he happens to hold views different from those held by some member of a board or some influential politician? Tolerance is the cornerstone of free institutions.

Among other claims to distinction Enid claims to be the last home of John Wilkes Booth, who assassinated President Lincoln. Many still hold to the view that the mysterious stranger, David E. George, who committed suicide there in 1903 was Booth and that it was another man who was killed by troops in the pursuit of the fugitive after the shooting of Lincoln. It is not likely that the mystery will ever be cleared up and one man's opinion has about as much weight as another's. No matter how Booth's career ended the great fact remains that he turned the whole course of American history and brought years of unutterable woe on the South by his deed.

Instead of improving, the railroad strike situation bids fair to grow worse. The "Big Four" brotherhoods in some places are growing restive and other unions are threatening to go out. It looks like a general strike is within range of possibility. If this occurs a general readjustment all around may be expected and what the final settlement will be is beyond conjecture. The man who devises a plan under which troubles of this kind may be avoided in the future will deserve the highest honors a grateful nation can bestow.

Congressman F. B. Swank, who won the nomination for a second term in congress from the fifth district, has made his way rapidly upward in the political world. From county judge of Cleveland county it was to step up to the district judge's bench, thence to congress after Harrel had succeeded Joe Thompson for a part of a term. Swank has made good all along the line and present indications are that he will win other honors before his political sun sets.

In selecting campaign issues some candidates and parties are like a candidate we knew in Texas many years ago. He was planning to enter the race for the legislature and in course of his preparations asked a good friend if he had better take a stand for or against a certain issue of the day. One side suited him as well as the other; it was just a matter of landing where the most votes were to be found.

The Republicans are saying a good deal about the Socialists of Oklahoma being lined up with the Democrats this year, but it might be well to remember that two years ago it was the lineup of socialists with the Republicans that carried Oklahoma for Harding, a number of members of the legislature and some state officers.

The Democrats of Atoka county split and held two county conventions. The contesting delegations will fight it out at the state convention as both factions elected complete delegations. One of the county conventions endorsed Walton and his platform while the other condemned the platform in very plain language.

The Republicans of Texas who are mapping out a campaign to elect a Republican senator in November are no doubt closely related by blood and political brains to the ones who thought they could carry the state for McKinley as against Bryan in 1896.

The Murray county fair is set for September 18, 19, 20. We suggest that the Murray county bunch attend our fair and then we will run over to Sulphur and return the visit when their fair opens. Turn about is fair play and we like all of our neighbors any way.

In days gone by the height of a man's stovepipe hat and length of his Prince Albert coat denoted a man's wealth and standing in his community. Now it is the make of his auto that furnishes the index.

From our exchanges it appears that nearly all the Democratic county conventions were very harmonious with Walton supporters in control nearly everywhere.

The Singing Demon

Mc Alester News-Capital

Mosquitoes bite us only as a last resort—when they are unable to find any other kind of prey.

You may doubt this, but it comes from the man who is supposed to know more about mosquitoes than any one else in the world. He is Dr. W. Rudolfs, scientist on the payroll of New Jersey.

Rudolfs' investigations show that a mosquito will pass up a human day for a horse, cow, dog or rabbit—any kind of animal life except chickens and ducks. Just why the steer clear of fowls is unknown. When science finds out, it may open the door to immunization of the man-animal against the singing, stinging demons.

You have swatted a mosquito and found it full of blood. About 9 out of 10 times, says Rudolfs, the blood is from an animal.

The mosquito is the universal pest. It is found in all parts of the world, Stefanson, the explorer, says there are many more of them in northern Greenland than in the equatorial jungles.

Here's a riddle of nature: The mosquito never feeds when the atmosphere's humidity is under 40.

Its appetite goes up with the barometer.

The mosquito is a biting fly. It hatches eggs laid in stagnant water. Its life usually is only a few months. Some kinds, however, live all summer. Others hibernate through the winter in maf stage, and emerge in spring from ice in which they have been frozen solid. With vitality like that, no wonder they are hard to exterminate.

The song of the mosquito—saddest music that ever reached human ear—is a sort of jing and throat rasp caused by breathing. Flies are different, their hum is caused by fast whirring of their wings—like an airplane propeller.

No public problem is more pressing and emphatic than the mosquito tribes when they are present. The germs they carry kill thousands of people, usually by malaria, typhoid and other fevers.

You believe in swatting the mosquito. But it seems like a hopeless job when you go on vacation and find them swarming in the woods and along the shores of fishing pools by million.

Man never will be able to exterminate the mosquito. But he can keep him in bounds, away from cities and open places in the country. All that's needed is to prevent stagnant water. A rusty old tin can with a little stale water in it will breed more mosquitoes than one person can swat in a lifetime. That's your cue.

MORE PATERNAL MEDDLING
(Tulsa World)

And again enters the government with its paternalistic urge and an entirely unnecessary recommendation. In order to get the children of the United States to eat more bread, it launches a plea for varied baking suggesting that brown bread, corn bread and white bread on successive days would stimulate appetite as would the baking of flour into fancied shapes. Surely some federal officer with nothing on his hands but manure powder would evolve such a plan.

"Cardui Did World of Good" (Tulsa World)

increase their capacity for eating bread. What is needed is some device that might decrease the consumption but still provide proper nourishment for the child. No one wishes to deprive the growing lads and lasses of sufficient and varied rations so necessary to promote health and physical strength.

But to witness the nerve, the dash, the gastronomic pep with which several little people will attack mother's offering of freshly baked bread or a liberal supply from the corner grocery, is to view with alarm. The rapidity with which the bread dwindles under the influence of appetite reinforced with good butter and jelly, suggests a marathon in which the object is to determine which one can devour the most rather than the satisfying of hunger. Is it not possible there is danger from over-indulgence; that a child's stomach packed to capacity with bread is injurious?

However, that government in its wisdom should attempt to broaden and increase the childlike appetite, is a useless piece of propaganda. To try to make it more perfect that it is now would be attempting to approve on perfection itself.

If the government's plea was for the rejuvenation of the jaded appetites of older persons there would be some sense and reason for it. Without any desire to discourage the federal sharpshooter in Washington, it is suggested that they start an innovation to some other.

Texas Lady Couldn't Sit, Stand or Lie With Any Comfort. Says "Cardui Did World of Good."

Bartlett, Texas.—Mrs. Nannie Mercer, of Route 3, this place, states:

"About three years ago I was in a very critical condition. I had been suffering for some time. To tell how I hurt would be impossible.

"I just hurt all over. I couldn't sit, stand or lay with any comfort, my back, sides and head all gave me a great deal of trouble.

"I was especially bothered with a light swelling in my head. My people were very uneasy about me and sent me to my relatives to see if a change would do me any good.

"I stopped at a sister-in-law's and she being a great believer in Cardui, asked me why I didn't use it. I decided to try it.

"I had only taken a few doses when I felt it would do me good. This gave hopes and I used it right along and it did me just a world of good, since which time I have never ceased to praise Cardui."

(By the Associated Press)

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 11.—The American people should be taught that the federal constitution and laws and the courts that interpret them do not destroy but preserve their liberties, declared Cordenio A. Severance, president of the American Bar Association, in opening the annual meeting of the Association here today.

A proposed constitutional amendment to prevent courts declaring laws unconstitutional he cited as a sample "of an innovation that would take away the liberties from the people by giving congress unchecked power." He declared influences from soviet Russia were seeking to overthrow the American government by force if necessary.

"If the proposed constitutional amendment should be adopted, not only would congress have unlimited right to deal with subjects that have always been looked upon as belonging to the states and reserved for their exclusive cognizance, but it would wipe out the Bill of Rights and all the protection that it gives to the people."

"It is a matter of real concern that the American Federation of Labor approved the proposed amendment, and such action by the representatives of so large an organization is symptomatic of a very serious condition of the public mind."

In an address entitled "The Constitution and Individualism" he traced the development of American liberty as sheltered and protected by the constitution and by the judicial interpretations placed upon it and declared that a growing tendency toward centralization of power in the hands of the government was a danger to the people.

Labor for Its Fruits.

"The fact that men will not labor with diligence unless they can enjoy the fruits of their toil is ignored by those who preach communism and denounce the exaltation of the individual," he said. "They forget that the selfishness which would take from the industrious that which he has achieved, for distribution among the whole, is far greater than the selfishness of the man who seeks to possess a bit of land for the exclusive use of himself and his family."

"Although each change of life caused by modern inventions, such as railroads, telegraph, pipe lines and even airplanes and radio has fitted in with the constitution, he said, late agencies of thought have attempted to substitute bureaucratic authority for the individual responsibility and self reliance.

"If we do not check the tendency to set up a bureaucratic government at Washington we invite disaster," he declared. "The wise men who wrote the constitution did not intend to place the citizen in leading strings. If legislators are permitted to run riot under the pretended exercise of police power, the constitutional guarantees for the protection of liberty and property will be destroyed."

St. Louis, Mo.—"I had troubles that all women are apt to have, with pains in my back, weak, tired, nervous feelings and a weak stomach. I had been this way about a year and was unable to work or stand on my feet for any length of time. My husband's aunt told me how much good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done her and begged me to try it, so I did. All my pains and weakness are gone, my stomach is all right and I do my work at home and also work for Swift's Packing Company. I recommend your Vegetable Compound to my friends and you may publish my letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. LULU LUCAS, 719A Vandeventer St., St. Louis, Mo.

Again and again one woman tells another of the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

You who work must keep yourself strong and well. You can't work if you are suffering from such troubles. Mrs. Lucas couldn't. She tried our Vegetable Compound and her letter tells you what it did for her. Give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial now.

NEWS NOTES FROM MOVIELAND

Bradley King.

Just to prove to you that young women really do win success writing scenarios, let me present Miss Bradley King, pretty, bobbed haired, young continuity writer for Thomas H. Ince. Miss King is often taken for a flapper in and about the film colony on the west coast but this vivacious young woman has to her credit several original scenarios and many adaptations.

Among her originals are "I am guilty," "Footlights and Shadows," "The Girl from Nowhere," "The Gilded Butterfly" and "Beyond the Crossroads." She wrote the continuities for "Lying Lips" and "Finding Home."

"Jim" a forthcoming Ince drama, having Milton Sears, John Bowers and Marguerite de la Motte in the cast is one of her achievements, and the introductory titles give her screen credits for both the original story and the continuity.

CHARLEY SEES MILDRED ACT

Mildred Harris was the headliner of the vaudeville bill recently in Los Angeles, and "they do say as how" Charlie Chaplin, her divorced husband, was one of a box party at the performance Friday evening. The local paper reporting the comedian's presence used the line, "The bravest of men weaken," as the lead of his story and added that Charlie left the theatre smiling.

STARTS "KICK IN"

George Fitzmaurice has started work on his next production, "Kick In". The cast will include Betty Compson, Bert Lytell, May McAvoy, Gareth Hughes, Kynaston Clifford, Walter Long, Robert Agnew, May Kelso, John Miltern and Judd Prouty. The play is one of Willard Mack's earliest successes. It played for nearly a year on Broadway with John Barrymore in the leading role. Ouida Bergère made the adaption.

MADGE KENNEDY'S FEATURE

Having completed the filming of scenes from "The Purple Highway," Madge Kennedy will now turn to the stage. She is soon to open an engagement in a play by Frank Craven entitled "Spite Corner." It is to be produced by John Golden, who also sponsored "Dear Me," from which Miss Kennedy's screen feature was adapted. Whenever will permit the star will devote her talents to the filming of "Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall," probably joining the ranks of those who appear on the stage during the evening and before the camera in the day.

NO CENSORS NEEDED

Censorship would become an unnecessary impertinence if all pictures had stories as clean as "Oliver Twist." Will Hays is reported to have whispered into the ear of Jackie Coogan one day recently.

IF—

(Rudyard Kipling)

If you can keep your head when all about you
Are losing theirs and blaming it on you;
If you can trust yourself when all men doubt you,
But make allowance for their doubting too;
If you can wait and not be tired by waiting,
Or being hated don't give way to hating,
Or being hated don't give way to hating,
And yet don't look too good, nor talk too wise;

If you can dream—and not make dreams your master;
If you can think—and not make thoughts your aim,
If you can meet with Triumph and Disaster
And treat these two impostors just the same:
If you can bear to hear the truth you've spoken
Twisted by knaves to make a trap for fools,
Or watch the things you gave your life to, broken,
And stoop and build 'em up with worn-out tools;

If you can make one heap of all your winnings
And risk it on one turn of pitch-and-toss,
And lose, and start again at your beginnings,
And never breath a word about your loss;
If you can force your heart and nerve and sinew
To serve your turn long after they are gone,
And so hold on when there is nothing in you,
Except the Will which says to them: "Hold on!"

If you can talk with crowds and keep your virtue,
Or walk with Kings—not lose the common touch,
If neither foes nor loving friends can hurt you,
If all men count with you but none too much:
If you can fill the unforgiving minute
With sixty seconds' worth of distance run,
Yours is the Earth and everything that's in it,
And—which is more—you'll be a Man, my son!

LAWYERS WOULD OUTLAW PISTOL

Making of Ammunition and Arms Would be Stopped
By American Bar.

(By the Associated Press)

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif.—Declaring that the pistol "serves no useful purpose in the community today," the committee on law enforcement included in its recommendations submitted to the American Bar Association last night one for the prohibition of the manufacture and sale of pistols, and of cartridges or ammunition designed to be used in them, "as save as such manufacture shall be necessary for governmental and official use under proper legal regulation and control."

"We find that more than ninety percent of the crimes in this country are committed by the use of pistols," continued the report of the committee, of which Judge William B. Swaney of Chattanooga, Tenn., was chairman. "We find that the laws prohibiting the carrying of firearms or deadly weapons are ineffective, in fact, that they work to the benefit of the criminal rather than the law-abiding citizen."

Other members of the committee were Judge Marcus Kavanaugh, Chicago; former Governor Charles S. Whitman, New York; Wade H. Ellis, Washington, D. C., and Charles W. Farnham of St. Paul.

Crime Situation Bad.

"The criminal situation in the United States, so far as crimes of violence are concerned, is worse than that of any other civilized country," the report said. "There is less respect for law. From all available sources of information, we estimate that there were more than 9,500 unlawful homicides last year in this country; that in 1920 there occurred not less than 9,000 such homicides, and that in no year during the last ten years did the number fall below 8,500. In other words, during the last ten years pistol or the knife, or by some other unlawful and deadly instrument."

"Burglaries have increased in this country during the last ten years, 1,200 percent."

"Deliberate murder, burglary, and robbery will seldom be attempted unless the criminal is armed. In European countries the criminals, as a rule are not armed."

"On the other hand, in crimes which indicate the dishonesty of the people, such as larceny, extortion, counterfeiting, forgery, fraud and other crimes of swindling, a comparison of conditions demonstrates that the morals of this country are better than in any other of the large countries of the world."

"It is our united opinion that the means provided in the United States for coping with crimes and criminals are today neither adequate nor efficient, for example:

Pistol Is Dangerous.

"First, we find that the parole and probation laws, as administered, very generally fail to accomplish the purposes for which the laws were designed and weaken the administration of criminal justice. We recommend that first offenders only should be eligible for probation. We recommend that the indeterminate sentence laws should be modified so as to apply to first offenders only, and we believe, too, that neither probation nor parole should be permitted those convicted of homicide, burglary, rape or highway robbery."

"Second, we find that more than ninety percent of the murders in this country are committed by the use of pistols.

"Third, we find the causes for delay in criminal cases so varied and the conditions so differing that we hesitate to make specific recommendations. Dilatory motions—and many other causes for delay, all accrue to the benefit of the law breaker.

"We recommend that every state be given every right to appeal now from a verdict of not guilty, and we recommend that the prosecutor in a criminal trial shall have the right to call the attention of the jury to the fact that the defendant has failed himself to contradict or deny testimony offered by the prosecution.

"We recommend that the state be given the right to amend the indictment upon proper terms, in matters of form.

"We recommend that there should be but one appeal from a judgment of conviction in the trial court.

Time Limit Set.

"We recommend that there be enacted legislation limiting the time during which judges or courts may hold under advisement dilatory motions made in criminal trials; that at the expiration of such time, without action, such a motion shall be deemed to be denied.

"Fourth, we find that in some of the states the jury is the final judge both of the law and the facts. We believe that such a condition is absolutely subversive of a government of law and we recommend the repeal of such statutes.

"Fifth, we find in various jurisdictions glaring abuses in the matter of bail, both in the amounts imposed and in the sufficiency of security offered.

"Sixth, we find that further legislation, should be enacted by the congress to punish and prevent lynchings and mob violence.

"Seventh, we find that more stringent laws limiting and controlling immigration should be enacted and enforced.

"Eighth, we find that the bill now pending in the congress, increasing the number of United States District judges and conferring powers upon the Chief Justice and senior circuit judges to have supervision over the work of the courts and see that the dockets are kept clear, should be enacted.

"Ninth, no meritorious case, whether civil or criminal, that is cognizable in the courts of the country, ought to be denied the services of an able, courageous and loyal advocate. And no man or woman, however humble, ought to be able to say in any American community that justice is too expensive for the poor. We therefore urge that in every community the members of this association volunteer to aid, without fee, the worthy poor who are being oppressed, defrauded or otherwise wronged, and who have not the means to employ counsel.

"We find that more than ninety percent of the crimes in this country are committed by the use of pistols," continued the report of the committee, of which Judge William B. Swaney of Chattanooga, Tenn., was chairman. "We find that the laws prohibiting the carrying of firearms or deadly weapons are ineffective, in fact, that they work to the benefit of the criminal rather than the law-abiding citizen."

WALKOUT SPREADING

Switchmen Join Firemen
and Engineers in a
United Protest.

(By the Associated Press)
CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—National wide paralysis of the railroad transportation threatened today as "big four" brotherhood men in various parts of the country called meetings to consider joining the trainmen's walkout which started when a crowd up trans-continental Santa Fe trains in California and Arizona deserts and freight transportation on the Elgin, Joliet and Eastern, Outer Belt Line for the Chicago steel and shipping districts.

The walkout of trainmen spread to other sections during the last 24 hours, switchmen joining the firemen, engineers, conductors and brakemen in protest against working where troops, deputy United States marshals and guards were on strike duty at former trouble centers.
Clerks on the Santa Fe coast line were authorized to walk out if they considered conditions unsatisfacfactory.

Passengers Tied Up

Southern Pacificermen joined the walkout, tying up important passenger trains at Oregon, Utah.

Although several Santa Fe passengers were held up by the strike of trainmen, some were backed into Los Angeles, other trans-continental trains were stranded in the deserts.

Passengers marooned at Flagstaff, Ariz., appealed to Santa Fe officials to release them from their plight declaring that women and children were suffering. The plan was passed on to the brotherhood officials at Needles, Calif., they were urged by the company to consider the situation from a "humanitarian" standpoint.

FIRELESS COOKERS
ROAST PASSENGERS

(By the Associated Press)
NEEDLES, CAL., Aug. 12.—"Fireless cookers" was the phrase applied last night to the day coaches by passengers stranded here, because of the controversy between the Santa Fe railroad and members of the big four brotherhoods.

"We are as contented as anyone could be, hundreds of miles from home, in a desert with the temperature standing at 113 degrees at seven o'clock at night," said one of them.

He and the other 550 or more deserted the train which, from standing in the sun all day, was hotter than the atmosphere, and took up a temporary home in the little park surrounding the railroad station.

A newspaper was all that was needed for a bed and the sky for a cover.

Passengers are being fed free by the railroad company until it shall be able to remove them to their destination.

WEST BOUND MAIL IS TIED UP IN ARIZONA

(By the Associated Press)
LOS ANGELES, Aug. 12.—Seven car loads of west bound mail were reported tied up at Asitok, Ariz., on the Santa Fe line. Mail from the east was been routed for a few days via El Paso but the spread of the strike has cut off this channel.

Government Ready to Use Machinery to Distribute Coal

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—While high hopes for early settlement of the coal strike are entertained by the administration, averting any necessity of restoring to the "drastic action" by the government frequently hinted at, results of the prolonged strike in the production of coal are expected to keep the government's coal distribution machinery functioning for a long period.

It was the opinion of administration officials yesterday that the anthracite coal strike would reach its climax within a week.

Muskogee Asks Governor About Report That Wounded Whites May Lose Building

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 12.—Governor J. B. A. Robertson was notified today of a rumor that the federal veterans bureau proposes to make the state soldier memorial hospital at Muskogee a hospital for negro ex-soldier mental cases. In a telegraph message from the secretary of the Muskogee chamber of commerce.

The Governor replied to the secretary's request that he investigate the rumor and act to prevent such a course by saying that he could do nothing whatever in the matter.

Murray Gibbons, former soldier and a member of the state legislature from McLain county expressed indignation when informed of the report. He was chairman of the house representative committee on the soldier relief during the last extra session of the legislature when the hospital bill was passed.

"If there is any possibility that the government may take the hospital over to be used for negroes," he said, "the bill is so framed I believe, that the offer of the institution to the government can be withdrawn by the state. I am sure that the next congress would withdraw the offer, or amend the bill to make that possible if it is not now provided for."

The ex-soldiers of the state would use all their power to prevent the use of the memorial hospital for negroes, and I think I can speak for the American Legion in saying that organization would strongly oppose such a proposal."

TO TAKE BOTH RACES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Probability of arrangements being made for taking care of both white and negro former service men at the Oklahoma Memorial hospital at Muskogee was indicated today at the veterans bureau. The hospital has not yet been leased by the government but it plans for acquiring the institution materialize it will be conducted as any other government hospital and probably negro patients will be received as well as white former service men, veteran bureau officials said.

Who Slew Woman.

(By the Associated Press)
TANAH, Okla., Aug. 12.—
Between now and August 21, Elias Ridge, negro boy, who confessed to the murder of Mrs. George Adair, white, wife of a Pensacola farmer
last Tuesday, will know his fate, County Attorney J. M. Hill announced today. With the negro still confined in the jail at Muskogee for fear of mob violence if brought here, Attorney Hill plans to bring him quietly into this county, within the next few days, and try him.

Despite the boy's youth, Attorney Hill said today he would insist upon the death penalty. Ridge will be 15 years old next Christmas day.

Upon arrival of judgment of the trial, Allison was placed in the county jail. It was alleged to have caused an attack on a revival meeting at Steedman on the 21st of July.

Rev. J. A. Brothers, a Baptist preacher who was attending the meeting, attempted to interfere with the fight and received a blow during the turmoil.

When excitement was at its height, Allison is said to have rushed away from the meeting place, leaped up behind a friend on a horse, and sped down the street.

A few minutes later, according to Deputy Sheriff L. M. Hilton who arrested Allison, the westerner bumped into Royal Isaac, who was also mounted, and is said to have attacked Isaac.

BIBLE THOUGHT OF TODAY

BETTER THAN RUBIES:—Search the Scriptures; for in them ye think ye have eternal life; and they are they which testify of me.—John 5:39.

The fight on Dr. DeBarr, vice-president of the university of Oklahoma, again brings up the question of how much liberty a school man should have in expressing his views on political question of the day. We do not know the details of the case against Dr. DeBarr, but we are unable to see why a teacher should be muzzled any more than a man in any other business. Of course we would not tolerate the teaching of anarchy, bolshevism or any other doctrine designed to destroy American institutions and ideals, but the country is nearing the danger point when to be a teacher a man must wear a muzzle and not be allowed the same freedom that other men are granted. A teacher is as much interested in public affairs as any other citizen and why should some one seek to drive him from his position because he happens to hold views different from those held by some member of a board or some influential politician? Tolerance is the cornerstone of free institutions.

Among other claims to distinction Enid claims to be the last home of John Wilkes Booth, who assassinated President Lincoln. Many still hold to the view that the mysterious stranger, David E. George, who committed suicide there in 1903 was Booth and that it was another man who was killed by troops in the pursuit of the fugitive after the shooting of Lincoln. It is not likely that the mystery will ever be cleared up and one man's opinion has about as much weight as another's. No matter how Booth's career ended the great fact remains that he turned the whole course of American history and brought years of unutterable woe on the South by his deed.

Instead of improving, the railroad strike situation bids fair to grow worse. The "Big Four" brotherhoods in some places are growing restive and other unions are threatening to go out. It looks like a general strike is within range of possibility. If this occurs a general readjustment all around may be expected and what the final settlement will be is beyond conjecture. The man who devises a plan under which troubles of this kind may be avoided in the future will deserve the highest honors a grateful nation can bestow.

Congressman F. B. Swank, who won the nomination for a second term in congress from the fifth district, has made his way rapidly upward in the political world. From county judge of Cleveland county it was to step up to the district judge's bench, thence to congress after Harrel had succeeded Joe Thompson for a part of a term. Swank has made good all along the line and present indications are that he will win other honors before his political sun sets.

In selecting campaign issues some candidates and parties are like a candidate we knew in Texas many years ago. He was planning to enter the race for the legislature and in course of his preparations asked a good friend if he had better take a stand for or against a certain issue of the day. One side suited him as well as the other; it was just a matter of landing where the most votes were to be found.

The Republicans are saying a good deal about the Socialists of Oklahoma being lined up with the Democrats this year, but it might be well to remember that two years ago it was the lineup of socialists with the Republicans that carried Oklahoma for Harding, a number of members of the legislature and some state officers.

The Democrats of Atoka county split and held two county conventions. The contesting delegations will fight it out at the state convention as both factions elected complete delegations. One of the county conventions endorsed Walton and his platform while the other condemned the platform in very plain language.

The Republicans of Texas who are mapping out a campaign to elect a Republican senator in November are no doubt closely related by blood and political brains to the ones who thought they could carry the state for McKinley as against Bryan in 1896.

The Murray county fair is set for September 18, 19, 20. We suggest that the Murray county bunch attend our fair and then we will run over to Sulphur and return the visit when their fair opens. Turn about is fair play and we like all of our neighbors any way.

In days gone by the height of a man's stovepipe hat and length of his Prince Albert coat denoted a man's wealth and standing in his community. Now it is the make of his auto that furnishes the index.

From our exchanges it appears that nearly all the Democratic county conventions were very harmonious with Walton supporters in control nearly everywhere.

The Singing Demon

McNees News-Capital
Mosquitoes bite us only as a last resort—when they are unable to find any other kind of prey.

You may doubt this, but it comes from the man who is supposed to know more about mosquitoes than any one else in the world. He is Dr. W. Rudolf, scientist on the payroll of New Jersey.

Rudolf's investigations show that a mosquito will pass up a human any day for a horse, cow, dog or rabbit—any kind of animal life except chickens and ducks. Just why they steer clear of toads is unknown. When science finds out, it may open the door to immunization of the man-animal against the singing, stinging demons.

You have swatted a mosquito and found it full of blood. About 9 out of 10 times, says Rudolfs, the blood is from an animal.

The mosquito is the universal pest. It is found in all parts of the world. Stefansson, the explorer, says there are many more of them in northern Greenland than in the equatorial jungles.

Here's a little of nature: The mosquito never feeds when the atmosphere's humidity is under 40. Its appetite goes up with the barometer.

The mosquito is a biting fly. It hatches eggs laid in stagnant water. Its life usually is only a few months. Some kinds, however, live all summer. Others hibernate through the winter in most stages, and emerge in spring from ice in which they have been frozen solid. With vitality like that, no wonder they are hard to exterminate.

The song of the mosquito—saddest music that ever reached human ear—is a sort of jing and throat rasp caused by breathing.

Flies are different; their hum is caused by fast whirring of their wings—like an airplane propeller.

No public problem is more pressing and emphatic than the mosquito tribes when they are present. The insects they carry kill thousands of people, usually by malaria, typhoid and other fevers.

You believe in swatting the mosquito. But it seems like a hopeless job when you go on vacation and find them swarming in the woods and along the shores of fishing pools by millions.

The mosquito, however, is not an explorer. He might fly a few miles in a season, but generally he haunts the old homesteads where he first tried out his wings.

Man never will be able to exterminate the mosquito. But he can keep him in bounds, away from cities and open places in the country. All that's needed is to prevent stagnant water. A rusty old tin can will a little stale water in it will breed more mosquitoes than any one person can swat in a lifetime. That's your cue.

MORE PATERNAL MEDDLING

(Tulsa World)
And again enters the government with its paternalistic urge and an entirely unnecessary recommendation. In order to get the children of the United States to eat more bread, it launches a plan for varied baking suggesting that brown bread, corn bread and white bread on successive days would stimulate appetite as would the baking of flour into fancied shapes. Surely some federal officer with nothing on his hands but maniacal powder would evolve such a plan. The children of this country do not require an injunction of any character to eat.

From our exchanges it appears that nearly all the Democratic county conventions were very harmonious with Walton supporters in control nearly everywhere.

St. Louis, Mo.—"I had troubles that all women are apt to have, with pains in my back, weak tired, nervous feelings and a weak stomach. I had been this way about a year and was unable to work or stand on my feet for any length of time. My husband's aunt told me how much good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done her and begged me to try it, so I did. All my pains and weakness are gone, my stomach is all right and I do my work at home and also work for Swift's Packing Company. I recommend your Vegetable Compound to my friends and you may publish my letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. LULU LUCAS, 719A Vandeventer St., St. Louis, Mo.

Again and again one woman tells another of the merits of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

You who work must keep yourself strong and well. You can't work if you are suffering from such troubles. Mrs. Lucas couldn't. She tried our Vegetable Compound and her letter tells you what it did for her. Give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial now.

NEWS NOTES FROM MOVIELAND

BY DAISY DEAN

Bradley King.

Just to prove to you that young women really do win success writing scenarios, let me present Miss Bradley King, pretty, bobbed-haired, young continuity writer for Thomas H. Ince. Miss King is often taken for a flapper in and about the film colony on the west coast but this vivacious young woman has to her credit several original scenarios and many adaptations.

Among her originals are "I am guilty," "Footlights and Shadows," "The Girl from Nowhere," "The Gilded Butterfly" and "Beyond the Crossroads." She wrote the continuities for "Lying Lips" and "Finding Home."

"Jim" is a forthcoming Ince drama, having Milton Sears, John Bowers and Marguerite de la Motte in the cast is one of her achievements, and the introductory titles give her screen credits for both the original story and the continuity.

CHARLEY SEES MILDRED ACT

Mildred Harris was the headliner of the vaudeville bill recently in Los Angeles, and "they do say as how" Charlie Chaplin, her divorced husband, was one of a box party at the performance Friday evening. The local paper reporting the comedian's presence used the line, "The bravest of men weaken," as the lead of his story and added that Charlie left the theatre smiling.

STARTS "KICK IN"

George Fitzmaurice has started work on his next production, "Kick In." The cast will include Betty Compson, Bert Lytell, May McAvoy, Gareth Hughes, Robert Clifford, Walter Long, Robert Agnew, Maym Kelso, John Miltern and Judd Prouty. The play is one of Willard Mack's earliest successes. It played for nearly a year on Broadway with John Barrymore in the leading role. Ouida Bergere made the adaption.

MADGE KENNEDY'S FEATURE

Having completed the filming of

scenes from "The Purple Highway," Madge Kennedy will now turn to the stage. She is soon to open an engagement in a play by Frank Craven entitled "Spite Corner." It is to be produced by John Golden, who also sponsored "Dear Me," from which Miss Kennedy's screen feature was adapted. Whenever time will permit the star will devote her talents to the filming of "Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall," probably joining the ranks of those who appear on the stage during the evening and before the camera in the day.

NO CENSORS NEEDED

Censorship would become an unnecessary impertinence if all pictures had stories as clean as "Oliver Twist." Will Hays is reported to have whispered into the ear of Jackie Coogan one day recently.

IF

(Rudyard Kipling)

If you can keep your head when all about you
Are losing theirs and blaming it on you;
If you can trust yourself when all men doubt you,
But make allowance for their doubting too;
If you can wait and not be tired by waiting,
Or being hated don't give way to hating,
Or being hated don't grieve way to hating,
And yet don't look too good, nor talk too wise;

If you can dream—and not make dreams your master;
If you can think—and not make thoughts your aim,
If you can meet with Triumph and Disaster
And treat these two impostors just the same:
If you can bear to hear the truth you've spoken
Twisted by knaves to make a trap for fools,
Or watch the things you gave your life to, broken,
And stoop and build 'em up with worn-out tools;

If you can make one heap of all your winnings
And risk it on one turn of pitch-and-toss,
And lose, and start again at your beginnings,
And never breath a word about your loss;
If you can force your heart and nerve and sinew
To serve your turn long after they are gone,
And so hold on when there is nothing in you
Except the Will which says to them: "Hold on!"

If you can talk with crowds and keep your virtue,
Or walk with Kings—nor lose the common touch,
If neither foes nor loving friends can hurt you,
If all men count with you but none too much:
If you can fill the unforgiving minute
With sixty seconds' worth of distance run,
Yours is the Earth and everything that's in it,
And which is more—you'll be a Man, my son!

LAWYERS WOULD OUTLAW PISTOL

Making of Ammunition and Arms Would be Stopped
By American Bar.

(By the Associated Press)

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif.—Declaring that the pistol "serves no useful purpose in the community today," the committee on law enforcement included in its recommendations submitted to the American Bar Association last night one for the prohibition of the manufacture and sale of pistols, and of cartridges or ammunition designed to be used in them, "save as such manufacture shall be necessary for governmental and official use under proper legal regulation and control."

"We find that more than ninety percent of the crimes in this country are committed by the use of pistols," continued the report of the committee, of which Judge William B. Swaney of Chattanooga, Tenn., was chairman. "We find that the laws prohibiting the carrying of firearms or deadly weapons are ineffective, in fact, that they work to the benefit of the criminal rather than the law-abiding citizen."

Other members of the committee were Judge Marcus Kavanaugh, Chicago; former Governor Charles
S. Whitman, New York; Wade H.
Ellis, Washington, D. C., and Charles W. Farnham of St. Paul.

Crime Situation Bad.

"The criminal situation in the United States, so far as crimes of violence are concerned, is worse than that of any other civilized country," the report said. "Where there is less respect for law. From all available sources of information, we estimate that there were more than 9,500 unlawful homicides last year in this country; that in 1920 there occurred not less than 9,000 such homicides, and that in no year during the last ten years did the number fall below 8,500. In other words, during the last ten years no less than 85,000 of our citizens have perished by poison, by the pistol or the knife, or by some other unlawful and deadly instrument.

"Burglaries have increased in this country during the last ten years, 1,200 percent.

"Deliberate murder, burglary, and robbery will seldom be attempted unless the criminal is armed. In European countries the criminals, as a rule are not armed.

"On the other hand, in crimes which indicate the dishonesty of the people, such as larceny, extortion, counterfeiting, forgery, fraud and other crimes of swindling, a comparison of conditions demonstrates that the morals of this country are better than in any other of the large countries of the world.

"It is our united opinion that the means provided in the United States for coping with crimes and criminals are today neither adequate nor efficient, for example:

Parole Is Dangerous.

"First, we find that the parole and probation laws, as administered, very generally fail to accomplish the purposes for which the laws were designed and weaken the administration of criminal justice. We recommend that first offenders only should be eligible for probation. We recommend that the indeterminate sentence laws should be modified so as to apply to first offenders only, and we believe, too, that neither probation nor parole should be permitted those convicted of homicide, burglary, rape or highway robbery.

"Second, we find that more than ninety percent of the murders in this country are committed by the use of pistols.

"Third, we find the causes for delay in criminal cases so varied and the conditions so differing that we hesitate to make specific recommendations. Dilatory motions and many other causes for delay, all accrue to the benefit of the law breaker.

"We recommend that every state be given every right to appeal now from a verdict of not guilty, and we recommend that the prosecutor in a criminal trial shall have the right to call the attention of the jury to the fact that the defendant has failed himself to contradict or deny testimony offered by the prosecution.

"We recommend that the state be given the right to amend the indictment upon proper terms, in matters of form.

"We recommend that there should be but one appeal from a judgment of conviction in the trial court.

Time Limit Set.

"We recommend that there be enacted legislation limiting the time during which judges or courts may hold under advisement dilatory motions made in criminal trials; that at the expiration of such time, without action, such a motion shall be deemed to be denied.

"Fourth, we find that in some of the states the jury is the final judge both of the law and the facts. We believe that such a condition is absolutely subversive of a government of law and we recommend the repeal of such statutes.

"Fifth, we find in various jurisdictions glaring abuses in the matter of bail, both in the amounts imposed and in the sufficiency of security offered.

"Sixth, we find that further legislation should be enacted by the congress to punish and prevent lynchings and mob violence.

"Seventh, we find that more stringent laws limiting and controlling immigration should be enacted and enforced.

"Eighth, we find that the bill now pending in the congress, increasing the number of United States District judges and conferring powers upon the Chief Justice and senior circuit judges to have supervision over the work of the courts and see that the dockets are kept clear, should be enacted.

"Ninth, no meritorious case, whether civil or criminal, that is cognizable in the courts of the country, ought to be denied the services of an able, courageous and loyal advocate. And no man or woman, however humble, ought to be able to say in any American community that justice is too expensive for the poor. We therefore urge that in every community the members of this association volunteer to aid, without fee, the worthy poor who are being oppressed, defrauded or otherwise wronged, and who have not the means to employ counsel.

"Tenth, first offenders must be segregated from veteran criminals, for the jails throughout the land today are breeding places for crime, and the young and thoughtless, who may often be reclaimed, are taught by professional criminals to scorn the restraints of society; and in this connection we may well consider the extension of psychopathic laboratories established as adjuncts to the criminal courts."

"We find that more than ninety percent of the crimes in this country are committed by the use of pistols," continued the report of the committee, of which Judge William B. In 1876 Fred Plaisted and James H. Riley rowed in the Centennial regatta on the Schuylkill. A few days ago these sculling stars renewed their rivalry. They raced each other in a special three-quarters mile race over the Schuylkill at the National regatta. And Plaisted, at seventy-two, defeated Riley, now seventy-eight.

Class Athletics to be Strong Feature At Local High School Hill Says in Early Statement

A student of the Ada high school will be given more opportunity during the forth coming year to broaden his mind, get more books and take part in all kinds of events of all kinds. To an announcement by W. A. Hill, who is engaged in preliminary plans for the week.

He is planning to give him more work than ever before. He will be handicapped in the class room and shortage of teachers. Due to the extra large number in the freshman department, classes will have to be held at the noon hour, he said. Because of more than fifty percent expected in the first year.

Class Work First. One of the new rules injected in the plan for the government of the high school during the term is that a student will be required to do good class work before taking up any side activity. A student failing in class work will be barred from any class activity, a student making a bare passing grade will be allowed to take only one side feature, and students taking several courses of study are being asked to be class leaders in grades.

Personal records will be kept of each student. This record will include the grades made at different periods of the school year in each subject. It will also contain the athletic record of the student, the side activity record and the general conduct of each student. Parents will thus be able to get first hand and complete information on their children in practically all phases of the school life.

Music Is Stressed. In addition to the regular school, many side activities will be offered. These include vocal and instrumental music in almost all cases. An extra large chorus and band enrollment is expected to nearly double. Many ward school pupils are also taking up work this year in preparation for musical activity the coming term, it was said. The orchestra will be one of the strong side activities also. Several new pieces have been added to the band.

Athletics will be conducted on Bogart of New Orleans scored four more runs for his club and was in front as a run getter with 4 tallies. Siva of Birmingham was string of stolen bases to 36 by hitting a couple during the past week.

East Is Contender.

East of Wichita is giving promise of making it a hot fight for the batting honors of the Western League. In his last eight games the Wichita slugger has smashed out fifteen hits, including three homers and is pushing Fisher of St. Joseph for first place. Fisher suffered a slight slump during the past week but retains the lead among players who have participated in 85 or more games, according to averages released today and which include games of last Tuesday. His average is .384 and East is five points behind with .379.

So heavy has been the slugging of the Wichita star that he has gone into a tie for total base honours with Davis of Tulsa, the home run leader of the league. They are tied with 291 bases. East's hits include 11 doubles, 5 triples and 20 homers. Davis' string includes 25 homers, 11 doubles and 3 triples.

Bennett of Tulsa continues to hold the lead as the best run getter, with 124 and Hemingway of Sioux City is far in front of the base stealers with 41.

OPEN GOLF TOURNEY TO BRING MANY ADA STARS INTO ACTION

Champions of Women's and Men's Divisions to be Selected.

Men and women who are eligible to take part in the Ada Open Golf Championship tournament, which will start within a few days, are requested to turn in their names and average scores to Harry Schienberg at the Model store by next Wednesday afternoon. All members of the local club are eligible.

The tournament will decide champions in Ada of both men and women divisions. Already a number of entries have been made and many more are expected. Interest in the open tournament is expected to attract considerable attention, as the Elks Tournament is now drawing to a close.

Ladies who have already entered in the tournament are Mesquites, T. P. Smith, H. P. Schienberg, Henry Reich, Roy L. Givens, and C. M. Thusen. Men who have entered are Henry Reich, Harry Schienberg, Paul Carson, Whit Fentem, Roy L. Givens, John Craig, T. P. Smith, Langford Shaw, Marshal Harris, Harmon Ebey, W. O. Mattison and W. N. Mays.

Schedules for matches will be made out by Mr. Schienberg, who will have charge of the tournament. Names must be in by the time set in order to give him a chance to get schedules completed and ready for the starting games within a few days.

SCULLING CHAMP DODGED PARADE AT HOMECOMING

(By the Associated Press)

DULUTH, MINN., Aug. 12.—How Walter Hoover, world's amateur sculling champion, at the age of 19 years avoided a homecoming parade staged after he had won his first sculling honors at Kenora, Ont., in 1914 was related here recently on the occasion of the champion's fatigued after a strenuous day with Henley.

Hoover, on the former occasion fatigued after a strenuous day with the home folks, slept at the club house far from the scene of the festivities while a man—Jack Neille, a boat carpenter rose in a miniature scull atop a large float and acknowledged cheers for "Ray Hoover."

Entirely unaware of the substitution, the townspeople who had previously seen little of Hoover because of his obscure training location "fell" for the affair, according to veteran oarsmen and members of the club being in the majority of the comparatively few who were aware of the trick.

He Got Cold Feet

In the words of an old-time at the club, Hoover got "cold feet" at the last minute, but failed to convince fellow oarsmen that his all moment was not plain "buck fever." As a last resort Hoover went to Jack Neville, a boat carpenter, and unfolded his story. Neville sympathized with the youth and for a short space of time that evening he filled the shoes of the Northwest sculling champion, while the real sculling king peacefully slept on the laurels which he had gained in winning first in the senior and junior singles at the Northwestern International a few days before.

These reminiscences were inspired by the champion's recent "stand" on his arrival in New York as revealed by the screen and when he was given a city-wide reception by his home folks. Modestly, but obviously with a feeling of confidence Hoover paid the price of being a world's champion and from the time he unflinchingly met the first battery of photographers in New York, he proved to his admirers that he had outgrown the weakness which kept him out of the first parade in his honor.

Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Dandridge, Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Kerr, and Mrs. J. W. Shelton left yesterday for Sulphur where they will spend the week-end.

A. B. Meyer returned Friday from an extended trip through Arkansas, Kansas and Colorado. His observations convinced him that Pontotoc county beats anything to be found in these other states.

SAPULPA—An alarm clock, a razor, three sheets, cooking utensils and an electric fan constituted the loot of a local burglar. Police explained that as most of the articles stolen are used by campers the thief was probably some "back to nature" fan.

MRS. PARKER GAINS ONE POINT LEAD ON OPPONENT IN MATCH

Mrs. Thusen Makes Strong Bid for Golf Honors, Losing at End.

In the most exciting match yet played in the Elks Golf tournament, Mrs. A. W. Parker gained a one point advantage over Mrs. C. M. Thusen in one of the semi-final matches at the links Friday afternoon, the score for the first half of the 18 hole match being Mrs. Parker 63, Mrs. Thusen 64. The game was a tie until the last hole.

Mrs. Roy L. Givens eliminated Mrs. H. P. Schienberg in a slow game earlier this week, the score for the full match being Mrs. Givens 148, Mrs. Schienberg 169. Neither of the players were up to their usual form.

Harry Schienberg who has charge of the Elks tournament, said today that all semi-final matches must be played by a week from next Wednesday and scores turned in to him. None of the men had played their matches up to today, but preparations were being made to start semi-final eliminations.

Interest in the tournament is growing as matches near the finals. A large crowd witnessed the Parker-Thusen match yesterday. Mrs. Roy L. Givens, Mrs. J. H. Patten, Mrs. Parker and Mrs. Thusen are the only ladies left in that division of the tournament. It has now developed into a four cornered affair and interest is rapidly increasing. Mrs. Parker and Mrs. Thusen expect to complete their play this afternoon if weather permits. In case they do, the last half of the game will start at 4:30. Invitations are extended to all to come out to the links and see the contest.

"What's the News?"

When Columbus and his caravels returned from the New World, the first question shouted from the shore was, "What's the news?"

That's always the question of paramount importance. Years ago folks asked it of the post rider, the soldier returned from the wars, the man who had been down to the settlements, or the neighbor back from the general store.

Today, you find the answer in your newspaper. Through the newspapers the news of the world and of the community quickly becomes public knowledge. And remember this—it takes two kinds of news to make a modern paper complete.

The first tells of happenings near and far—of fires, sports, elections, accidents, marriages, deaths, great men, great events.

The second tells of things you eat, wear and use—things you buy, things being sold to your friends and neighbors. This news is advertising.

It's just as important to keep up-to-date on the advertising in this paper as it is to read about what's doing in the world of events.

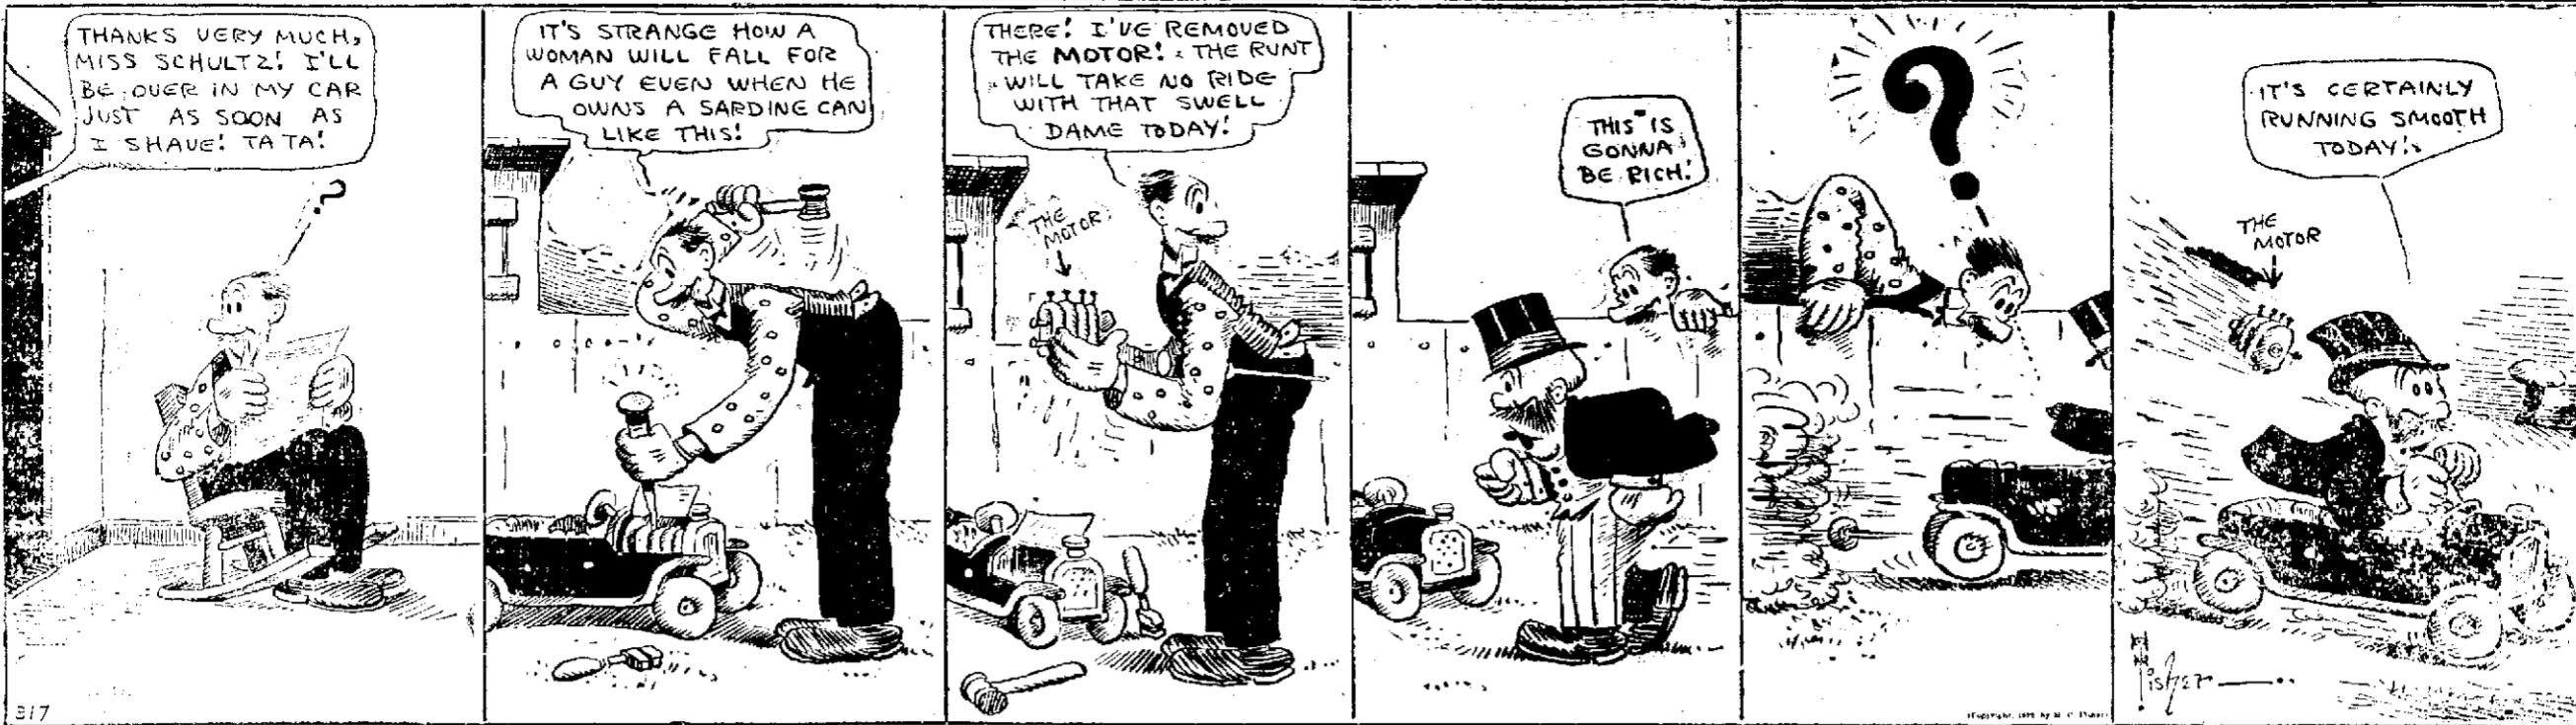

Advertising is an essential news service.

It is distinctly to your advantage to be guided by it.

IN ARCADY

By MARTHA PROUTY

© 1922, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

Norah and I had met when boughs touched ground with their icy burden. We had met in the woods and we had watched a squirrel scamper and laughed aloud at his antics, and all at once felt that we knew each other very well, though there was no one near to put us through conventional paces. We walked to the village postoffice that first day for a mail three days delayed. Norah was a woodman's daughter, and I a hermit who lived in the woods, and the customs that trouble many people, keeping them too busy to allow them happiness, did not so much as enter our heads.

Throughout the winter I met Norah 10 times—I knew this because I had made a notch in the chestnut tree at my door on my return from each of these pilgrimages into Arcady. I was quite willing to go on making notches forever if Norah and the gods would be kind. But Norah was sweet and joyous, something of a tease and something of a fraud, and made my task difficult. I was her victim, and she knew it, and the squirrels knew it, and every bird that came to be fed at her feet, but it did not help matters that the information should be general.

It made Norah cross to have been caught napping while spring stole upon us, and though I could have told her from signs to be found deep in the heart of the woods, still I liked to make Norah pout.

"What are you doing?" I inquired one morning as I leaned over the fence that separated the clearing from the woodpath. Norah, in a big gingham apron, kneeling on the warm brown earth—Norah with an anxious pucker on her brows and a rich red dyeing her cheeks—was vigorously applying various implements to the task of making a garden.

"Can't you see?" she inquired. "My pansies and mignonette are going to be late this season. I can't think what was on my mind—how time flies!"

"Doesn't it?" I assented warmly, while I wondered if as poor a worm as my humble self had been the cause of Norah's belated gardening. I had made her walk six miles a day for her health, as I explained it, and I had made her go skinning the ground on snowshoes—skating, too, when there was skating to be had, and again to see the fallen giant of the forest that a winter storm had uprooted at last. Every day I had sought some path that should keep us side by side, even hand in hand, so it is no wonder that Norah thought of time as something with wings.

"In three long months I surely should have seen you more often, for I could swear that it is but three days ago I met you," I said conversationally. "And now I must go away," I burst out suddenly, determined that Norah should show surprise.

"Away—where—why?" she stammered, and I had the pleasure of watching danger signals lavishly displayed. "I thought you loved the woods and the country and that you meant to live in Arcady forever. I believe you are a fraud."

"I'm afraid, I am, Norah," I acknowledged shamelessly. "But I am strong and well now; I've gained new health here among the pines. The city dust has been blown from my eyes, city noises have been banished from my brain. I'm healed, and I have no excuse for lingering. So I have come today to ask you if you'll—i hesitated and watched her narrowly—"help me pack, a man is so clumsy at those things."

"Now?" asked Norah, rising swiftly. For Norah was stanch and true, and a thoroughbred when it came to taking a blow squarely and bearing up stoutly.

We hustled through the woodpath, though Norah would now and again stop to admire a fluffy frond of new fernery and to pick a spray of the fragrant ginseng.

We sat down at my humble doorstep while Norah quaffed deeply from the tin dipper I brought her from the spring. A pair of robins were building a nest in my chestnut tree. Norah watched them, absorbed.

"There is a great physician," I faltered, "who has told me time and time again, once for each notch on the chestnut tree, that to be truly strong and able to withstand all battles, I'll need the tonic he prepares for the heart. It is he alone who knows the formula—and one other—but I'm afraid the other will fall me some day."

"Fall you! Why, nobody could be so cruel!" Norah cried out, with perplexity and trouble staring from her lovely eyes. "Why did you never tell me your heart was weak? I am so sorry, and I would be so glad to help."

"But suppose the other were you, Norah, and the strengthening tonic love? The great physician is he who gave love to the world, and who led me straight to you. Am I to stay in Arcady and be glad, or go back to the city and be miserable, Norah?"

She placed her hand softly in mine. "You needn't have frightened me so," she whispered. "Are you quite sure your heart is strong?" And for answer I kissed her with all the enthusiasm of a happy lover in springtime.

I think the gods are good to those who understand how to pray to them. Why not try your luck at it, and join us next year in Arcady?"

Goldfish numbering 500,000 are imported into great Britain every year, most of them coming from Italy, where the breeding is a big industry.

Exposition Building Will Become Embassy

United States Building at the Brazilian Centennial Exposition, Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, as it will appear when completed. It will later serve as the United States Embassy.

JOSEPH H. CHOATE, while Ambassador to England, was accosted by a London policeman late on a rainy, blustering night.

"What are you doing, walking about this beastly weather?" the "Bobby" demanded. "Better go home."

"I have no home," said Choate. "I am the American Ambassador."

The notorious failure of the United States Government to provide embassies in foreign capitals will be eliminated as far as Brazil is concerned through the construction of a $300,000 building now being built at Rio de Janeiro to house American government exhibits at the Brazilian Centennial Exposition, and later to be converted into the American Embassy.

The exposition, which will have a beautiful setting on the shores of Guanabara Bay, will be opened on September 7th—Brazilian Independence Day.

Located directly opposite the entrance to the harbor of Rio de Janeiro with its towering promontories, the new embassy has the most commanding, as well as the most convenient position possible.

The architecture is in the Portuguese Colonial style, harmonizing with the Brazilian mode. The outer walls of the building enclose a patio, or court open to the sky, in which a tropical garden and fountain will be located, surrounded on all sides by a wide corridor, or arched gallery. The walls of the patio, treated in a soft buff Caen stone, with the frieze and soffits of the overhanging cornices and the tile inserts of the walls in high colors, will be distinguished by the fine reception rooms and offices of the future embassy follow the Latin arrangement, opening on the corridor and gallery around the court. The building is being constructed by Dwight P. Robinson & Company of New York from plans by Frank L. Packard, architect, of Columbus, Ohio.

Construction is progressing at a rapid rate. In June, Mme. Epitacio Pessoa, wife of the President of Brazil, laid the cornerstone.

The feeling in the United States of the growing importance of South America is indicated by the sum being expended for this embassy. Previously the government had constructed but two embassy buildings, one in Peking at a cost of $180,000 for building, grounds and equipment, and one in San Salvador at a cost of $60,000 for the building and improvement of grounds.
